Astroneer (Clamshell

Case), a game designed by a well known Swedish studio Wollek and brought to us by Panic, is one of the game that was designed for VR. Although it was never available for this type of devices, sometimes we see high-quality games that were never released for the headsets yet. The design of this title is based on how the early explorers of the New World who landed on the beaches saw the New World. They saw landscapes without infrastructure, but those travelers were able to understand that they were seeing something incredible. Something that would change them forever. In Astroneer you are an explorer in the land of the infinite unknown. You land on an alien planet, explore it, build a shelter and grow crops to be able to sustain yourself. In Astroneer you will travel across the planets surface from a rover that will allow you to fly for a while. However, you will not be flying for too long, as this would be a very dangerous task in a game where the sun will be your enemy. Astroneer is an open ended experience. You are free to explore the worlds surface as you wish, no preferred path
