What's New In?

Drawing Tools in AutoCAD have been completely rewritten to make it easier and more intuitive to work with. From creating sketch lines to producing a blueprint, now it's just a matter of choosing the tool you want. (video: 1:24 min.) Changes made to Import Source Libraries: Importing libraries is now much faster and more reliable. Scans of library documents are now cached locally and will speed up the import of the library. The cache also allows for one-time imports of new libraries. (video: 1:17 min.) You can add a library to the drawing environment by opening it with the Open command. Previously, the library had to be opened from the Command Line. (video: 1:40 min.) New Mouse Tools with a New Look: You can now hover your mouse over many objects to get a live 3D preview of the object. This preview will appear only while the object is highlighted, giving you a sense of how that object fits into the 3D space. (video: 1:29 min.) You can now access the 3D Snapping window with the Spacebar key. With the 3D Snapping window open, you can pan and zoom objects in three dimensions. (video: 1:45 min.) The rotation of objects is now much easier to control, with one-finger and two-finger scroll and pan options. (video: 1:55 min.) Importing Symbol

Points with the Symbol Point Task: Importing symbol points from many different types of data now takes less time. Importing many points can also now be imported more reliably. (video: 1:48 min.) A new 3D line option enables you to toggle between a regular line and a line that can be swept, snapped, and rotated around. This line can be used to create parabolic profiles and other geometric shapes. (video: 1:46 min.) 3D solid rendering in the drawing environment now works as fast as it does in PowerView. (video: 1:40 min.) The new Fillet command automatically fills the interior of a path. The command also allows you to click on points on the path to create multiple fillets. (video: 1:50 min.) You can now save your selections and annotate your drawings in DraftSight. (video: 1:49 min.)
