Please feel free to contact us at support@zimbio.com,.A Kelli Sprecher segment at the end of tonight's Talking Dead includes a discussion about whether several Marvel characters — including (I think) Scarlet Witch, Doctor Strange and Iron Fist — could feasibly appear on the show. As per usual, it's not an actual TV show discussion but it's the sort of thing that fans ask about all the time, so it's a good place for Sprecher to address the issue. Anyway, here's what she said: "Gendry and Davos definitely. We were just talking about that. They are there for very specific reasons and we definitely want to continue exploring those ideas." On whether any of the three could make a cameo in season two: "Scarlet Witch, yeah, certainly. Doctor Strange. Yes. Iron Fist. I think so. We'd love to see it." At this point, I'm not sure what "certainly" means. It's not like it's a big question of which Marvel property would be included and which would be cut from the show. (Like I was getting the impression that the show might include Blade or Ghost Rider.) So, at the very least, it sounds like Sprecher will discuss this at some point in season two. A few possibilities: 1. The producers are considering bringing in specific characters as part of the first season to build up momentum. 2. The producers are seriously considering bringing in specific characters, although they're currently undecided. 3. The producers are considering bringing in specific characters, but they're currently undecided. 4. The producers are joking around about bringing in specific characters, which they have decided not to do. (Which would be pretty strange considering that the whole topic was brought up on a show called Talking Dead.)
