ADVERTISEMENT MAMMA Mama Mamma Mama (also known as mommy or mami) is the affectionate term for a mother. The exact meaning differs from country to country, and in different regions in each country. For example, in the United States of America, the terms mother, mom, mama or mommy are common for the biological mother of a child, and mami is used in the Southern United States or the South for the maternal grandmother of a child. In other countries or regions, such as the Philippines, Australia or the UK, maami is a colloquial term for a working mother. In the Caribbean, Guadeloupe, a mother is béy béy (from the French name maman) or béy béy maman. In French Guiana, mama is equivalent to maman. In Senegal, mama is used as a term of endearment for a mother. In Malawi, it is usually shortened to Mama. In Cuba, mama is used as a term of endearment for mother. In Latin America, some indigenous tribes use mamacita (the Spanish translation of mamacita, mamá (spanish for mother), is the title used for a mother in some countries, such as in Argentina), for mother, or jaja for grandmother in Spanish. In Spanish, a mami is a female caregiver, while a mamá is a female caregiver. Mama was originally a linguistic contraction of mothereye, which in the Middle English period developed into Mama as well as the Old English ma or mara. In some countries, such as in the United States, the title of mother is used to describe the mother of any child, including grandparent, foster parent, adoptive parent, or a "stepmother" or "stepmother". However, in the United States it is also commonly used in reference to the biological mother of a child. The word mother is very popular with single men and women who adopt children. "Mother" can be used
