Telerik Kendo UI For JQuery R2 2019 SP1 (2019.2.619) Retail

We added a number of new features for the Kendo UI Data Grid. Some of them include: Added filtering support for the field validation rules. Users can now open a popup when the selected row is double clicked. This is useful to prevent accidental double selecting. In this tutorial, we will learn how to create a form in Kendo UI for the Food store application. We will begin with the basic HTML, CSS, and JavaScript required to implement the Food store application. We will also briefly see how the Kendo UI Notifications component can be used to demonstrate the key functions for our store. The form in the Food Store application consists of a simple Kendo UI Grid with an add button. When the add button is clicked, the user will be prompted to enter name, price and quantity of the food. For the Kendo UI Notification component, we will add 2 events to the Kendo UI Grid component. The first event listens to the press of the enter key, and the second event listens to the click of the add button. On the first event, the user will be prompted to enter a name for the food. On the second event, the quantity and price are added to the Kendo UI Grid for the user to select. In this tutorial, we will use the Kendo UI component called Grid for displaying customers and add a button to add a new customer to the grid. When the add button is clicked, Kendo UI dialog box will be opened and the user will be able to add new customer. We learn how to use the Kendo UI Notification, which allows us to control when the popup appears on screen using the Kendo UI iFrame mode. This is important for us to restrict this popup only in cases where its needed. For the rest of the time a simple alert() popup will do.
