As a user of Geneko, you do not need a PC. The tablet technology allows you to access Geneko apps from anywhere in the world. Geneko DMVPN implementation is quite simple. A router is connected to two or more sites. Sites are connected with Geneko GWR router through PPP. Geneko GWR router connects with hub site with IPSec over PPP. While Geneko GWR router is connected with remote sites over PPP. Remote sites are connected with hubs using PPP over IPSec. DMVPN also provides failover in case remote site fails. Data transmission between PPP sites is encrypted, while data transmission between PPP and IPSec is not. In case IPSec connection is dropped and IPSec IKE negotiation fails, PPP will also be dropped and all IPSec traffic will be re-encrypted to bring back the IPSec tunnel. In case of PPP failure, all sites will become unreachable.
