Lumin Disk Wipe is a reliable disk wiper for Windows 8, Vista, 7, XP, and 2000. The program can help you wipe physical and logical drives on your computer and keep them safe. The simple interface makes this software easy to use. There are two wiping algorithms available in the program. You can choose a Pseudo Random or Pseudo Random Zero algorithm and you can wipe your device with any empty space on the media. Features: Algorithms: Zero Wipe, Pseudo Random and Pseudo Random Zero. Free disk space on your device to use when you wipe. Selection of a drive to wipe: Physical or Logical. View the properties of your device: The size of the drive, its media type, its size and its file system. Cautions: If you plan to wipe a drive on which important data are stored or if you plan to wipe a drive with the same name as another drive, make sure you know the drive's full path. Select the drive to be wiped before you click the Clean button. Click the Next button twice. The WordPress.com stats helper monkeys prepared a 2014 annual report. The results are in, and they are (not surprisingly) pretty awesome. 2014 was a big year for the WP family of blogs. We experienced our best year yet, thanks in large part to the helpful, informative posts from our users and the incredibly supportive and active WordPress.com Forums. The full results of the survey are located here. Some of the highlights: 143,000 blogs created in 2014 65.7 million pageviews on WordPress.com 46,000 users created 60,000 new accounts for a total of

87,000 new accounts 32,000 users accessed an average of 1,500 widgets 7,700 WP Video tutorials created 4.3 million comments were left by users 2.3 billion unique users visited 10.4 million spam comments were removed by our dedicated team There were almost 20 million new page views to 2.6 billion on over 58 million unique visits. The community began to address the issue and over 300 million spam comments were removed by our spam cleanup team, while over 10 million page views were prevented by our Site Security and Malware Filtering systems. The number of new features is the same as last year, which is great, but that means that the number of users who
